The Fisheries Research Board of Canada will require two vessels and crews for salmon fishing on the high seas during the summer of 1959.

Area: The vessels will be required to fish and make other observations at specified positions within an area bounded mainly by longtitude 160°W, latitude 48°N and the North American Coast.

Period: It is anticipated that charters will be for 120 days, commencing on May 1 or soon after, and ships will possibly be based in the Aleutians.

Personnel: Crews should consist of six men or more, including the captain. Accommodation should also be available for three observers from the Fisheries Research Board.

Gear: Fishing gear will be supplied by the Board and will consist mainly of drift nets of various mesh sizes. It is anticipated that 1,800 fathoms of net will commonly be set out at one time. Suitable deck space and roller will be required, also power block or other mechanical device for hauling nets.

Other Requirements: Vessels should have sufficient hold space to carry ballast and large refrigeration units. The latter will be supplied by the Board but engine room should be equipped with hydraulic pumps to drive the refrigeration compressors.

Vessels should be equipped with reliable echo sounder, radio-telephone and adequate instruments for navigation on the high seas, including radar, type to be specified to the successful bidder.

Fuel and lubrication oil, but not provisions, will be provided by the Board.

Vessels will be required to undergo Steamship Inspection.

Interested vessel owners should apply not later than February 28, 1959, giving full details and daily rate to:

The Director
Fisheries Research Board of Canada
Biological Station
Nanaimo, B.C.

February 3, 1959.

Prisoner Flees, Feared Shooting

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 24-year-old Hungarian who fled from Oakalla Prison because he feared he would be shot was jailed for 30 days on an escape charge Friday.

Magistrate C. C. Bell was told that Stefan Wacz panicked while on a work party Jan. 27 after apparently taking seriously the teasing by other prisoners that he was to be executed. He was captured the next day.

Wacz, who came to Canada in 1956, was serving 30 days for vagrancy.

"Make it clear to this man that he will not be shot," the magistrate instructed the court interpreter. "I also want the John Howard Society to see that Wacz gets a job when he gets out."

Wacz's 30-day escape sentence is in addition to the unserved part of the vagrancy term.

George Thinks Big — Thousands Listen

'I've Been to the Moon'

LONDON (CP) — George King shifted his athletic body in the swivel chair, gazed at his yellow office wall and talked intensely about his travels. It was out of this world.

"I have made several trips to the moon."

He also mentioned trips to Mars, Venus and Jupiter.

"Martians are very scientific—short, sharp, straight to the point. Venusians are compassionate. People on Jupiter are artistic—great musicians."

MENTAL CHANNEL

King, who says he didn't take his body on these junkets, calls himself "primary terrestrial mental channel" and he was handed this title by "Martian and Venusian authorities." He describes himself as a liaison officer between spacemen and earthmen.

The Aetherius Society, which he founded three years ago, claims "thousands" of members in six countries, including Canada. The London branch lists doctors, electronics workers, musicians, titled persons and one admiral among its followers.

They have bought their own headquarters building, including living quarters, offices and lecture rooms. And in these lecture rooms they hear their leader translating his space messages.

King begins: "This is Mars sector six reporting from satellite No. 3 now in magnetization orbit of terra." Then there is a lengthy warning to earthmen to change their ways, stop atomic bomb testing, and pray to the "master Aetherius."

The 40-year-old former farm manager, chauffeur and fireman, is a well-built, lean-faced individual with high-school education.

He has the ruddy complexion of a sportsman and speaks with obvious conviction in a crisp, clear tone.

Since a "mysterious voice" told King of his appointment 4½ years ago, he says he has received hundreds of communications from outer space. He says most come while he is in a trance, but "just occasionally" he gets instructions to make physical contact with spacemen. "Usually it's late at night, high on a hill."

Early last year, King applied for a seat in the United Nations so he could be consulted on space matters. He got no reply.

He doesn't think any other member will get direct instructions from space. "The latest information I have is that I will be the only one."

Optimists Name Winners of $200

The $200 prize at the Victoria Optimist bingo at Central Junior High School Thursday night was won by Reine Taylor, 2041 Meadow Place, club members reported.

More than 1,000 were in attendance, but failed to collect the $400 special jackpot. It will be boosted to $450 for the next bingo, Optimists said.

More than $1,000 in cash prizes will be up for winning at the next bingo, March 5.

Hungary's Housing Swap

Care for Legacy

BUDAPEST (AP) — Hungary's perennial housing shortage has made a new type of ad common in classified columns:

"Wanted: old man or woman who would agree to leave house or other real estate to young people in exchange for care during their remaining years."

A government-controlled paper estimates that nearly 25,000 contracts of this kind are made every year.

A lot of them don't work out. The old people are crotchety and demanding, the young ones thoughtless and impatient.

Many cases have come into the courts. Old peasants who have refused to join collective farms are in a particularly bad spot since they get no old-age pensions.

Sandor Varga, a lawyer, proposed that agreements be made through a government office which would guarantee the old people a monthly income. The ministry of justice promised to look into the possibilities.

The housing shortage shows no sign of abating. Authorities say they plan to build 37,000 units in 1959, but there will probably be about 100,000 marriages and only 50,000 pairs of deaths.

So it does not look as if the new housing available will even keep pace with increasing needs.

A married couple is legally entitled only to one room. When they have a child they are entitled to a second room—but two-room aapartments are scarce in this part of the world.

For Aged People

Top 'Army' Officer To See Home Site

A leading Salvation Army officer from Toronto is visiting Victoria next week to inspect plans for the proposed aged people's home on the site of Mount Adelaide, the old Matson home in West Victoria.

Lt.-Col. Doris Barr, secretary of the Women's Social service of the Salvation Army, is to inspect the site and have lunch with members of the Victoria advisory board at Holyrood House on Monday.

Lt.-Col. Barr is in charge of all the Army hospitals, children's homes and old people's homes across Canada.

The Army is proposing to erect a 100-bed residence for old people at Mount Adelaide. It would also have a small sick bay where medical attention would be provided for non-acute and non-chronic ailments among the residents.

It is estimated that the demolition of the old building and construction of the new residence would cost about $700,000.

The Salvation Army believes that a home of this nature is badly needed in the Victoria area.

Later it is hoped that accommodation will be available for elderly married couples.

Archives Inherits Douglas Chairs

Two upholstered mahogany chairs, once property of Sir James Douglas, and a reclining chair belonging to Capt. Walter C. Grant were recently donated to the provincial archives.

The chairs were acquired under the terms of the will of Miss Isabella Keith, as memorials to her father and mother, James Cooper and Anne Jane Keith.

Miss Keith, who died in Vancouver last year, was a granddaughter of Roderick Finlayson, chief factor of the Hudson's Bay Co., which first came to this coast in 1839.

Kidd President Of Sooke Legion
